

TECH IN ART

"Much like any new technology we find ourselves contemplating the unknown future of AI. For the Amsterdam Light Festival, I designed 'Pool of Dreams'—installation comprising 100 mirror-finished and stainless-steel orbs. I attempted to indulge in the realms of art, light, and technology while addressing the festival's theme," Vibhor Sogani tells Bazaar India. In an age overshadowed by concerns about technological progress, he invites viewers to embrace a more positive outlook. He says, "showing in an open public space comes with a different set of challenges and excitement. Everyone becomes a part of the audience and therefore the fun quotient is hugely rewarding and satisfying."
