A SHINING EXAMPLE

Inspired by the change in seasons, this stunning light is perfect fit for a modern home

By RIDHI KALE

A lot is expected from a light today. It has to illuminate the space, add drama, transform into functional art, create a play of shadows, and even highlight your decor. So, most don't make the cut. However, here's a piece that's a cut above the rest. Called Autumn, this bespoke light is from installation artist and light designer Vibhor Sogani's studio. "It invokes the essence and beauty of the changing seasons," says Sogani, adding, "Multiple mirror-finished facets, each with a life of its own, sparkle in unison to create this aureate gem." What's more, each thick sheet of metal is chamfered and combined with the other to create that perfect sharp line. There the prism like surface radiates a light that gently draws you into the folds of its golden aura. Now, that's one bright idea.
